The Catholic Navigator Apostolate is an activity of lay Catholic individuals committed to evangelization and education of fellow Catholics in the Faith as established by Christ and guided by the Church's Magisterium. The authority for such an apostolate is specified as follows:

Lay Apostolate: The Catechism of the Catholic Church (CCC 863) calls an apostolate "every activity of the Mystical Body" that aims "to spread the Kingdom of Christ over all the earth." The Decree on Apostolate of Lay People (AA), 3 states "On all Christians rests the noble obligation of working to bring all men throughout the whole world to hear and accept the divine message of salvation."
